

[Inside this issue]

OCT/NOV_04

FEATURE >>> LEGAL >>> DILEMMA >>> NEWS >>> RESEARCH >>> BRIEFING >>> DIARY

- 03 LEADER
Presenteeism Can health and productivity research demonstrate that good health really is good business?
- 04 NEWS
 ... fatal injury figures ... workers' health information code ... working hours ... OH nurses to manage council's absence ... asthma guidelines ... work-related illness ... pregnancy at work ... computers give you backache ... call centre voice loss ... work-related road deaths
- 11 LEGAL NEWS
 ... directors struck off after firm prosecuted ... employment tribunal can order disclosure of medical records despite 'right to privacy' ... no risk assessment in construction fatality case ... retail firm fined for exposing staff to asbestos
- 13 FEATURE
Beyond NHS Plus
 The delivery of NHS OH services may be radically reshaped in an effort to improve provision and counter criticisms that current services are patchy and largely reactive. John Ballard reports.
- 16 FEATURE
Stress at work
 Are we 'overmedicalising' stress at work and, in doing so, reinforcing negative beliefs about stress-related ill health? Mike O'Donnell and Stephen Bevan argue that the threshold-approach to assessing stress risks is flawed and that we would achieve more by adopting a positive approach to stress management.
- 20 FEATURE
Return to work
 Rehabilitation principles developed for the management of back pain may apply equally to other health conditions, such as mental ill health, musculoskeletal conditions and cardio-respiratory disorders. Kim Burton and Gordon Waddell discuss
- the findings of a major review and policy paper prepared for the DWP.
- 25 FEATURE
Occupational exposure limits
 The HSE plans to overhaul the system of occupational exposure limits, but occupational hygienists are concerned that the proposals would 'dumb down' exposure monitoring and limit future epidemiological studies. Becky Allen reports.
- 28 DILEMMA
Incentivising absence
 Employers are desperate to keep a lid on sickness absence, but can we reduce the burden by persuading employees to improve their attendance? Or should we focus our efforts on changing absence behaviour by addressing the relationship between the worker and the work environment? Jon Millidge and Mark Simpson argue their points of view.
- 30 EXPERT WITNESS
Secrets and lies
 What protection do OH professionals have when they find out their employer has breached medical confidentiality? Diana Kloss reports on a recent case where an OH nurse took her case to a tribunal after being dismissed for 'whistle-blowing'.
- 32 RESEARCH DIGEST
 ... ill-health retirement decisions ... health and productivity research ... presenteeism ... CBT ... EU absence ... treating neck pain ... shiftwork ... concrete dust exposure ... vibration laws
- 36 BOOKSHELF, LETTERS & DIARY
- 37 TOOLBOX
 ... roundup of regulatory changes, guidance, campaigns and consultations ... occupational infections ... waste industry website ... home workers ... OS&H in Europe ... violence against teachers ... training tool for SMEs ... occupational hygiene explained ... updated electrical guidance