

[Inside this issue] DEC/JAN_04/05

FEATURE >>> LEGAL >>> DILEMMA >>> NEWS >>> RESEARCH >>> BRIEFING >>> DIARY

- 03 LEADER
Half measures The government has ignored the tide of public opinion in promoting only an incomplete ban on smoking at work.
- 04 NEWS
 ... smoke-free workplaces ... work-related illness and injury statistics ... more men are bullies, survey finds ... vocational rehabilitation framework ... civil servants take two weeks' sickness absence every year ... mental health rehab evidence review ... stress increases MSD risk ... TUC safety reps report more stress at work ... LEV qualification
- 09 LEGAL NEWS
 ... female HSE inspector pursues equal-pay claim ... lack of machine guarding led to prosecution ... disabled woman discriminated against by return-to-work policy
- 11 FEATURE
Over the threshold
 The HSE has launched the long-awaited management standards for tackling work-related stress, without the much-criticised 'thresholds' and with a simplified assessment tool. John Ballard examines the final product.
- 15 FEATURE
Exposure to trauma at work – part 1
 In the first of a two-part feature, Gordon Turnbull explains why exposure to trauma can lead to chronic mental ill health and why an understanding of human responses to extreme distress is essential in designing interventions to promote recovery.
- 20 FEATURE
Asbestos management
 Martin Stear explains how the legal duty to manage asbestos provides a strategic framework to minimise risks to workers who may be exposed through their work.
- 23 FEATURE
Working pregnancy
 Many employers and individual workers are benefiting from a pregnancy accreditation programme set up by the charity Tommy's. Sarah Silcox finds out what is required of employers that sign up and how it works in practice.
- 28 DILEMMA
Paternalism in H&S
 In this 'dilemma' we ask whether or not an employee has the right to choose to be exposed to risks at work that could worsen an existing health condition. Bill Gunnyeon and Jackie Davies argue the healthcare and legal principles at stake.
- 30 EXPERT WITNESS
Stresses and strains
 On first reading, employers' duties to manage work-related stress under the HSW Act seem at odds with their common law duties: there is a statutory duty to assess risks, but the common law allows an employer to assume that an employee is up to the job, unless told otherwise. Diana Kloss explains.
- 32 RESEARCH DIGEST
 ... classification of work-related mental ill health ... air-conditioning ... psychosocial factors in injury recovery ... physiotherapy for low back pain ... non-health factors linked to absence ... fatal animal allergy ... return to work in mental health cases ... shift work link to late foetal loss ... sleepy nurses ... laboratory animal allergy ... ill-health retirement
- 36 BOOKSHELF, LETTERS & DIARY
 ... protective gloves for occupational use ... dangerous properties of industrial materials ... Acas guidance on stress at work
- 37 TOOLBOX
 ... roundup of regulatory changes, guidance, campaigns and consultations ... DDA Code of Practice ... DRC caseload ... work-at-height consultation ... major-hazards industries ... good business in health and safety