

[Inside this issue] AUG/SEPT_05

FEATURE >>> LEGAL >>> DILEMMA >>> NEWS >>> RESEARCH >>> BRIEFING >>> DIARY

- 03 LEADER
Is work-life balance a medical issue? Employers and employees should be working together to find solutions.
- 04 NEWS
 ... rights to take risks at work ... TUC wants changes to corporate killing law ... optical radiation directive gets closer ... nurses top absence league ... plans for smoking ban revealed ... Cochrane expands to cover occupational health ... burnt out Britain ... suffering in (pregnant) silence – discrimination at work ... office design affects workers' performance ... call centre workers risk voice loss ... breach of worker law ends in jail ... Capita buys BMI Health Services
- 10 LEGAL NEWS
 ... healthcare trust had no 'higher degree of knowledge' – Employment Appeal Tribunal rejects tribunal decision in disability case
- 11 FEATURE
Employee assistance programmes
 Can employee assistance programmes (EAPs) provide more for employers than just legal protection against negligence? Peter McBride believes that a professionally delivered EAP can indeed benefit both employers and their employees, but stresses the importance of choosing the right provider.
- 16 FEATURE
Sick notes
 John Ballard reviews the findings of two reports commissioned by the DWP on the role of GPs in the management of sickness absence and on whether or not non-medical healthcare workers can take on some of the work of GPs in the certification of sickness absence.
- 18 FEATURE
Bullying at work
 Alison Telfer explains what can constitute bullying, how it can be investigated and resolved, and how organisations can develop workplace cultures that help to eradicate it.
- 23 FEATURE
Managing fatigue
 In the second of our two-part series on chronic fatigue syndrome, Sue Wilkins discusses its management and what OH professionals can do to support sufferers back to work, or to help them remain at work despite their condition.
- 28 DILEMMA
Alternative therapies in the workplace
 Alternative therapies are being used increasingly in relation to employee health, with techniques ranging from aromatherapy and reflexology to shiatsu and acupuncture. But should OH really be embracing such non-conventional therapies? Angela Cottingham believes that alternative therapies can complement mainstream OH. John Humphrey disagrees.
- 30 EXPERT WITNESS
Pregnancy and maternity
 According to the EOC, one million pregnant women are likely to experience discrimination at work over the next five years if current poor employment practice continues. Diana Kloss explains the complex law that governs the rights of women – and men – in relation to pregnancy, maternity and parenthood.
- 32 RESEARCH DIGEST
 ... hairdressers' reproductive hazards ... caution on tests for HAVS diagnosis ... underreporting of accidents and injuries is widespread ... cancer threat to nuclear workers ... spinal fusion v intensive rehabilitation ... half of Americans will suffer mental illness ... health surveillance may underestimate occupational asthma ... the US experience of occupational asthma ... safety reps play key role in H&S
- 36 BOOKSHELF & DIARY
 ... counselling for NHS staff ... health and safety law ... key events in occupational health
- 37 TOOLBOX
 ... roundup of regulatory changes, guidance, campaigns and consultations