

[Inside this issue] FEB/MAR_07

FEATURES >>> LEGAL >>> DILEMMA >>> NEWS >>> RESEARCH >>> BRIEFING >>> DIARY

- 03 LEADER
Back to the future Proposals for a new HSE governing body mirror those recommended in the 1972 Robens Report – which also called for greater focus on mental health and rehabilitation at work
- 04 NEWS
 ... then there was one – HSE to get new governing body ... REACH compromise paves way for June start ... fitness standards are discriminatory, says DRC ... health of young workers at risk ... work and health guidance ... OH psychology in the NHS – conference ... smoking ban given July start ... healthy rewards for OH profession ... HSE guidance is deficient ... SAD time of year – seasonal affective disorder affects workers
- 09 LEGAL NEWS
 ... does the DDA cover carers? – Aldridge Law v Coleman
- 10 FEATURE
Naughty and definitely not NICE
 The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence has released evidence-based guidance on the treatment and prevention of overweight and obesity – including a role for employers and workplaces. John Ballard examines the guidance and looks at what some employers are already doing to promote a more active workforce and healthier eating.
- 17 FEATURE
A force for health
 The Metropolitan Police Service has delivered two successful health promotion and screening campaigns in the past three years. Dr Eileen Cahill-Canning explains how the initiatives have contributed to improved attendance, a more productive workforce and cost savings.
- 21 FEATURE
Occupational physicians for the 21st century
 The second of a two-part feature on training and education for occupational physicians examines the proposed new higher specialist training programme in occupational medicine. We ask whether the framework will deliver occupational physicians with the right skills for the changing world of work.
- 28 FEATURE
Reporting occupational illness
 Can occupational disease reporting be improved to have more relevance to managers? Anthony Bell explains why he believes a practical and cause-based approach to disease reporting would promote employer responsibility.
- 32 DILEMMA
Testing source patients
 Should source patients be tested for HIV and HCV following a needlestick injury, even if consent cannot be obtained? Employment lawyer Chris Cox and cardiothoracic surgeon Graham Venn put their points of view.
- 34 EXPERT WITNESS
The employer and the private investigator
 Diana Kloss explains the circumstances in which employers may be justified in using covert surveillance. But is there any protection for OH departments to ensure confidential communication with individual members of staff?
- 36 RESEARCH DIGEST
 ... long hours may be good for you ... is semiconductor work linked to cancer? ... influenza vaccinations ... women and wellbeing ... TB tests for healthcare workers ... medical radiology cancer risk? ... quality of life after myocardial infarction ... asbestos exposure
- 40 BOOKSHELF & DIARY
 ... cancer and working ... fitness to drive
- 41 CLASSIFIEDS
 ... courses and conferences
- 43 BRIEFING
 ... your need-to-know guide to this issue