

[Inside this issue] FEB/MAR_08

FEATURES ▶▶▶ LEGAL ▶▶▶ DILEMMA ▶▶▶ NEWS ▶▶▶ RESEARCH ▶▶▶ BRIEFING ▶▶▶ DIARY

- 03 LEADER
Inequity at work Research shows that capuchin monkeys respond negatively when their fellow animals receive better rewards, with the reaction based on 'fairness' not on awareness that there are better rewards available. Does this aversion to injustice explain our own perceptions of work?
- 04 NEWS
 ... sicknotes to focus on capacity ... Royal Mail renews Atos contract ... TUC tells employers to tackle root causes ... violence against NHS staff ... pandemic flu plans... OH technicians – the quiet revolution ... back to work skills for nurses ... waste sector failing on H&S ... MEPs demand action on OH
- 10 LEGAL NEWS
 ... unfair dismissal ruling overturned in 'malingerer' case – Corus UK Ltd v Mainwaring ... carers and the DDA – Attridge v Coleman ... pregnancy risk assessment must be made promptly – Home Farm Trust Ltd v Mrs GA Nnachi ... no need for medical assessment in disability case – London Borough of Camden v Mrs V Price-Job
- 13 FEATURE
Mental ill health at work
 Michael Parsonage reports on a recent study from the Sainsbury Centre for Mental Health on the 'hidden' cost to employers of mental ill health. The organisation, which works to improve the quality of life of people with mental health problems, claims the costs of 'presenteeism' and staff turnover swamp the direct costs of absence.
- 17 SURVEY
Long-term absence and the role of the OH nurse
 With OH nurses increasingly taking responsibility for advising managers about employees on long-term sickness absence, Sandra Glenn reports on the findings of a survey examining whether they are adequately equipped to perform this important part of managing health conditions in the workplace.
- 23 FEATURE
Guidelines on fitness for work
 Fitness-for-work guidelines are only effective if they are fit for purpose. Euan Thompson explains how to produce guidelines that work and reflect current good practice, as well as the legal and ethical boundaries that can make their development a challenging task.
- 27 INSIGHT
Improving the health of Britain's workforce
 John Ballard talks to Britain's first national director for health and work, Professor Dame Carol Black, who explains how her background in rheumatology led to a realisation that physicians need to understand more about occupational health. She hopes to improve access to OH services as well as revise the sicknote system and tackle mental health.
- 31 EXPERT WITNESS
Vicarious liability
 Although our legal expert Diana Kloss reminds us that an employer is rarely liable for the wrongdoing of employees in criminal cases, she does warn that an employer that directly employs an OH professional may be vicariously liable for their negligence.
- 33 BOOKSHELF & DIARY
 ... pandemic flu... MSDs in Europe
- 34 RESEARCH DIGEST
 ... RSI incidence is overestimated ... physical barriers better than drugs ... shiftwork increases women's risk of early retirement ... health complaints and sickness absence
- 36 RESEARCH PLUS
 Our compendium of published evidence on occupational health.
- 39 BRIEFING
 ... your need-to-know guide to this issue